Course Overview

This course is a pragmatic introductory course focused on strategic and functional marketing, entrepreneurship, intra-preneurship and innovation issues and opportunities that arise from current and emerging industry best practices in helping organizations to grow and achieve sustainable competitive advantage in a complex and rapidly changing global environment. Functional marketing is the technological implementation and execution of corporate and marketing strategies inside and outside the organization. The course will examine the impact of new technologies on strategic and functional marketing, entrepreneurship and innovation. Students will identify and analyze business and technology cases and learn through a combination of an individual academic report, a team project, presentations, lectures, case studies, review of current events, and experiential exercises. Students improve their personal competence, confidence, competitiveness by developing their capability to acquire and analyze academic knowledge consistently and integrate it into practice.

Learning Objectives

- The primary goal is the development of a student's personality and advance their analytical academic skills, focus attention, and practice presentation and articulation, enhance confidence, and develop professionalism and competitiveness
- Understand the growing role and importance of strategic marketing, entrepreneurship, intra-preneurship and innovation to ensure success of small and large organizations and effectively integrate them into daily business
- Define and analyze market segments and customer needs and wants, and learn how develop value added products and services
- Understand the transforming impact of technologies on organizations in order to make organizations more flexible, leaner, nimbler and effective entities
- Review the tools, processes, techniques and competencies required to be effective marketers, entrepreneurs, innovators and change agents
- Complete a detailed marketing/product plan for a new product or service or an extension of an existing product or business
- Practice presentation and articulation to acquire and build personal confidence in order to successfully compete in the market place – know how to sell yourself
- Acquire knowledge and confidence through practice to effectively work in a team and as individual
- Approach of discovery and active learning by explaining concepts to others.
- Learn to read, write, analyze, conceptualize, communicate and persuade.

Teaching Strategy

- Introducing the scientific method.
- Step-by-step teaching strategy to practice the scientific thought process that is based on three components: one dependent variable (goal), one or more independent variables (factor(s)) and the hypothesis which is the scientific link between two variables.
- Exercises in building models relating a dependent variable with independent variables via hypotheses.
- Limitations of the scientific method.
- Introducing the scientific paper structure.
- Step-by-step teaching strategy to practice each component of an academic paper.
- Writing exercises on each component of an academic paper.
- Introducing presentation strategies to strengthen communication skills and personal confidence.
- Practicing personal communication skills in presentations and written argumentations.

This is a learning-by-doing course -- your agreement to actively participate on a regular basis is a prerequisite for your enrollment in this class. A Chinese proverb says: What I hear, I forget. What I see, I remember. What I do, I know.

Text Books and Endnote

Book: Armstrong, Gary & Kotler, Phillip, Marketing – An Introduction, 11th edition, Prentice Hall, ISBN-13: 9780132744034, ISBN-10: 0132744031. (Armstrong & Kotler, 2013)

Course Requirements

1. Class Attendance, Participation, Punctuality, Cheating and Plagiarism:

Timely attendance at each class session is mandatory. Class lectures complement, but do not duplicate textbook information. Together students and instructor will create an interactive learning environment. A significant portion of your learning will accrue through the constructive and respectful exchange of ideas and search for alternative solutions. You must be actively engaged in class discussions to improve your thinking and communication skills.

It is the student's responsibility to become familiarized with and adhere to the standards set forth in the policies on cheating and plagiarism as defined in Chapters 2 and 5 of the “Key to UB Student Handbook” available at <http://www.bridgeport.edu/pages/2623.asp> or the appropriate graduate program handbook.

Always cite your sources and references in APA style. For information about how to cite visit:

Be certain that your travel arrangements do NOT conflict with any of your team or individual presentations.

2. Preparation, Deadlines and Late Policy:

No late submissions. Don't wait until the last minute!

3. Homework/Case Analysis:

The syllabus identifies the oral and written homework assignments. Each written assignment must be typed and only one or two pages long. Late submissions have 20% penalty per day.

!!Homework/Case Analysis must be submitted by email for grading each Sunday midnight (20% per day penalty for late submissions)

All students are required to read and submit six (6) written cases and two (1) paper on innovation. Students must be prepared to discuss all cases in class. Each case homework should be 1-2 pages long and must include:

1. Title/Topic - State the title or selected topic
2. Summary -Summarize the key issues and facts of the case
3. Questions - Answer the questions associated with the case
4. Recommendations - Make recommendations based on the facts and your experience
5. In-text Citations: APA style

- a. Cite Book1: (Armstrong & Kotler, 2011), for example after summary (2.)
- b. Cite 2 academic articles: take one direct quote (authors' opinion, argument, finding, assumption, issue, etc.) and use it properly in your homework
6. Lessons Learned - Formulate the lessons you learned from the case
7. Question for Class – Formulate one question on the case that you would like to have discussed in class
8. References: create Endnote library with full references in APA style

Important: Make sure your case covers all 8 points above in separate sections and each question is answered separately! For each missing point 0.5

4. Team Term Project and Presentation:

New Product/Service Marketing/Business Plan

In the first session; 8 teams (2-4 members) will be formed. Each team will prepare a written new product/service marketing/business plan (6 - 8 pages, double space, 12 point, Times New Roman). The Team must properly use and cite in-text 5 - 10 academic articles from academic journals and list the references at the end of the paper in mandatory APA style. The team can use articles that have been distributed by the instructor. The team will present the Marketing Plan to the class.

All sources (pages from articles, books, web pages, etc.), used for the paper, must be turned into pdf and emailed together with the project – make sure that you cite the sources in the text with page number of the paper and reference them at the end of the paper in APA style.

The team must email following files two days before beginning of the last session to TCMG400 Gmail:

1. Softcopy_Email of Written Marketing/Business Plan, and
2. Endnote Library! (.enl file)
 - Cite sources properly in-text including page numbers
 - List references (articles, books, web pages, etc.) in mandatory APA style at the end of the paper
3. Power Point poster (and optional PowerPoint presentation)
4. Softcopy_Email pdf files of articles and other sources (web pages, etc.)

Two presentations are required for this project. Based on the feedback from the instructor and the class participants on the first presentation (Part 1), the final presentation (Part 2) may propose a totally different marketing/business plan from the one originally presented in Part 1, or may simply revise the material presented in the first presentation.

Part 1: (the first presentation) must address Items 2 – 8, 12

Part 2: (the final presentation) must cover all of the Items 1-12 listed below:

All recommendations and assumptions must be supported by facts (referred journal articles) that are clearly referenced. A detailed outline is provided in the Marketing Plan.

Required sections of the Marketing/Business Plan:

- 1.) Executive Summary
- 2.) Company Vision and Objectives
- 3.) Current Market Situation: Product or Service Objectives, Description (functions, features) and Value Proposition (Benefits to the Buyer)
- 4.) Current Market Situation: Major Industry Characteristics, Trends, Regulations, etc.
- 5.) Current Market Situation: Market Opportunity and Segments (Who is the Targeted Customer? What is the size of the market? Explain how the market will grow.
- 6.) Current Market Situation: Competition – Identify the major competitors and their key attributes
- 7.) Barriers to Entry (what you do to make it difficult for competitors to enter the market in your space)
- 8.) Major Risks and Contingencies
- 9.) SWOT Analysis
- 10.) Marketing Plan – Sales Objectives – market share, gross margins, marketing strategies and imperatives (pre-launch, post-launch, positioning, distribution channels, pricing, branding, advertising and promotion, customer retention and loyalty programs, marketing metrics and key performance indicators, etc.)
- 11.) Financials - (4 years of Profit and Loss Statements and Initial Start Up Sources & Uses of Funds.
- 12.) References

To receive a high grade, every member of the team must equally participate in presentations, its preparation and delivery.

5. Individual Academic Report on a Causal Model & Suggested Topics:

Each student will prepare a written academic report (3000 – 4000+ words, 12 point, Times New Roman) on a marketing topic, or topic related to the course. Students collect 5 academic journal articles on the topic of their choice and write a report on the authors' empirical findings and opinions about the topic and use real world cases (e.g. from Armstrong/Kotler textbook) to discuss the selected factors and concepts (usefulness, pro/cons, etc.) while stating their own opinions, arguments, recommendations and conclusion. An executive summary will be presented to class using 1-3 Posters.

You may select from the suggested topics listed in the syllabus, or submit your own topic for approval. The paper must be well written, typed and page numbered, be supported by research containing referred references and be consistent with general expectations of graduate study.

You can use articles that have been distributed by the instructor. All sources (pages from articles, books, web pages, etc.) you are using for the paper must be cited in-text including page numbers and be references at the end of the paper in APA style.

The Report must contain (3000-4000+ words, or more): Meeting minimum requirements will result in a B+.

1. Title - page
2. Table of Content
3. Structured Abstract (no references), see example at:
<http://www.emeraldinsight.com/journals.htm?issn=2040-8269&volume=33&issue=11&articleid=1886418&show=abstract>
4. Introduction/Literature Overview, Importance of Research (40+ references)
 - a. What did I learn about Marketing? (150-300 own words)
 - b. Collect and quote definition of Marketing (up to 800 words) and discuss with cases.
 - c. Add list of 5-10+ definitions you have found in articles (use quote and cite with page number)
5. Research Methodology/design/approach: Review-Centric Research (LePine & Wilcox-King, 2010) e.g. conceptual research (Meredith, 1993), (Dreher, 2000), action research (Winter, 1987), case study research (Perry, 1998), (Eisenhardt, 1989), (Yin, 2003), grounded theory, ethnography (Schultze, 2000), emic/etic research etc.
6. Build Model using Power Point template on BlackBoard and integrate into MS word document
7. Explanation of Model and analytical Reflection on its factors and goal (Schön, 1983)
 - a. At least one article must be from the “Journal of Marketing”
 - b. Explain each causal link in the model (explain each hypothesis, its virtue, importance and impact)
 - c. Explain the causal impact of each factor (independent variable) on the goal/objective (independent variable)
 - d. Define the independent and dependent variables by citing two or more references)
8. Importance of Model/Research and Potential Impact on Organization/Society/Recommendations/Implications
 - a. Summarize importance of 5.
9. Conclusion/Discussion (including: Lessons Learned, Impact on Organization/Society)
10. The student must properly use and cite in the text 40 references in the paper – 30-60 references are the norm.
11. References listed in mandatory APA-style.
12. Appendix1:
Write a section about the Scientific Method: Ch1 (Kerlinger & Lee, 2000) (add/use 5+ references)
 - a. What is the Scientific Method? (300-500 words from quoted material and comment on quoted material in your own words)
 - b. Collect and quote definitions and discuss underlying Philosophies
 - c. Make a table of definitions you have found in articles (use quote and cite with page number)
13. Appendix2:
Write a section about the Relations: Ch5 (Kerlinger & Lee, 2000) (add/use 5+ references)
 - a. What is the Relations? (300-500 words from quoted material and comment on quoted material in your own words)
 - b. Write about dependent and independent variables of the model on page 99
 - c. Collect and quote definitions and discuss underlying Philosophies
 - d. Make a table of definitions you have found in articles (use quote and cite with page number)

Abstract Example:

Purpose – This paper aims to review how current policy instruments drive (or not) environmental innovation and, by doing so, to reinvestigate the relationship between innovation and regulation.

Design/methodology/approach – A comprehensive literature review on innovation and environmental regulation created a theoretical foundation of the paper. Using the grounded theory, a model was developed and evaluated using interviews. This is a timely topic as the new shape of recent environmental regulation appears to be fairly strict. A new model is presented to encapsulate highly dynamic interaction of environmental innovation and regulation to provide results that reflect on the present innovation behavior and its implications.

Findings – The model highlights various diffusion pathways that are triggered by the main three drivers of innovation namely government (regulation), market (competition and cost) and technology which has the possibility of an autonomous diffusion.

Research limitations/implications – The empirical data are limited to 13 qualitative experts' interviews within industry, consultancies and governmental departments.

Practical implications – The suggested model is particularly useful for policy makers to better understand the innovation dynamics and its diffusion pathways to design smarter regulations that incentivize rather than force organizations to comply with regulation.

Originality/value – The paper shows how regulation drives (or not) innovation and how various diffusion pathways can be used by external stakeholders to direct and promote innovation.

Paper Structure:

1. Title page
2. Table of Content
3. Structured Abstract
4. Introduction
5. Methodology
6. Explanation of Model
7. Importance of Model
8. Conclusion
9. References
10. Appendix1
11. Appendix2

See: <http://www.emeraldinsight.com/journals.htm?issn=2040-8269&volume=33&issue=11&articleid=1886418&show=abstract>

Each student will present the executive summary of their paper to the class and submit:

1. Written Academic Report (3000-4000+- words)
2. Upload into TurnItIn
3. Power Point poster
4. Email pdf files of 3 articles and other sources (web pages, etc.)
 - Cite sources properly in-text including page numbers
 - List references (articles, books, web pages, etc.) in mandatory APA style at the end of the paper

Students are required to upload their papers into Turn-It-In before submission.

Scientific Method:

1. Theory - (some knowledge and insight exist, but reality is uncertain)
2. Independent Variables, Dependent Variable, Hypothesis (Model) – (limited in scope and to research method/approach)
3. Measurement - (valid for a specific time and place and restricted to research scope)
4. Interpretation - (might deepen knowledge and insights, but is tentative and can be completely out of time/place scope)

The scientific method can be applied to any circumstances (e.g. smog case *). The knowledge that is gained is largely opinion driven and the interpretation can easily be at the opposite ends of the knowledge or truth continuum.

Because a theory in business is always limited thus tentative, an interpretation ranges from at best partial right to completely wrong at a specific time and place. This time-dependency of a theory requires flexible and timely decision making and adjustment to a constantly changing business environment.

Dear Students:

It is part of the exercise that you select a topic by yourself.

Go to the " Journal of Marketing" or any other marketing journal and select an article you like and identify the dependent variable. Then get four more articles each with one independent variable that relate to your dependent variable. Than go on with adding 4 more articles for each independent and dependent variable until you have your story.

Best wishes, cb

Course Policies

- Ethics policy - Don't lie or cheat.
- Open book policy - If you don't open your books, you flunk.
- You need to buy the textbook!
- Read the syllabus.
- Read exam question before answering it.
- The syllabus is tentative. Report errors or omissions in the syllabus. – Don't use them as excuse.
- In-class announcements are the rule – not the syllabus.

Course Structure

Lecturing is only one of the three approaches used in this course. Knowledge will be acquired through facilitated case/article discussions and student presentations. Students are expected to engage actively in preparing for and presenting the case materials. For completing the assignments and project, students may need to do additional research, and look for information and knowledge that is not covered by the textbook and the lectures. It is assumed that a major learning objective for this course is to cultivate students' capability in searching, identifying, evaluating, and integrating relevant knowledge that may or may not be provided in the class.
